The participants

At the peak of our event, 54 people were logged in,
from 5 countries!

Movember and the PCO study

Michael Fischer

(Movember Europe)

introduced us into the Movember's origin and mission. His report on Movember' 2020 campaign focusing on mental health issues really affected our audience.

Christoph Kowalski

(Principal Investigator PCO study; DKG)

"In all aspects of life, even in amateur sports, we have tables measuring and comparing teams, organizations, services, products. However, for sth. really important such as quality of life of prostate cancer patients, it's only the PCO study which has established sth. similar!"

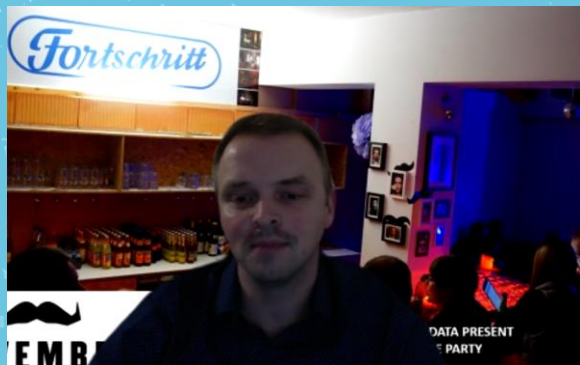

Günter Feick

(BPS)

stressed the importance for patients of measuring patient reported outcomes based on standardized data fields and quality indicators.

Movember and the PCO study

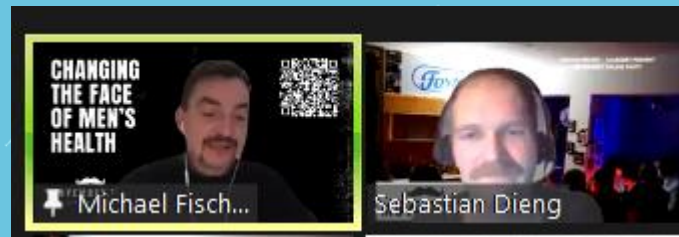

Phillip Fölkell

(Urologist, University of Greifswald)

giving an impression on how to explain differences between hospitals.

MOVEMBER ONLINE CHARITY PARTY

AT clardata & ONKO CLAR
NOVEMBER 26TH, 2020

ABER: WIR SAMMELN NICHT NUR DATEN

- Ziel ist es, Unterschiede in der Behandlungsqualität zu reduzieren.
- Dafür entwickeln wir zusammen mit der DKG Benchmarking-Reports und weitere Tools, um die Lebensqualität des Patienten in den Qualitätsverbesserungsprozess in den Zentren zu verankern.

Live Music acts

George Heinle

showed off his very special skills forcing heavy metal pieces into exciting piano arrangements.

For more information check out:
<http://heavymetalbarpiano.com>

Why using zoom polling only for boring conferences? At the event, the audience could decide, which piece George had been supposed to play. It became „Last Resort“ by Papa Roach ;-)

A screenshot of a Zoom Poll interface. The title is 'Heavy Metal Piano Song'. The question is '1. Welchen Song wollt ihr von George auf seinem coolen Technics Piano hören?'. There are five radio button options: 'Straight To Hell (Rage)', 'Limelight (Rush)', 'Last Resort (Papa Roach)', 'Black Dog (Led Zeppelin)', and 'Nemo (Nightwish)'. A 'Submit' button is at the bottom.
